TIME: 3 hours, 30 minutes

PART I: ESSAY QUESTIONS

There should be six pages in this essay part of the examination, including this one. Make sure that you have them all as soon as the examination begins. The multiple choice questions are in a separate packet. This examination is CLOSED BOOK. A pamphlet containing certain Federal Rules and procedural statutes should be available in the examination room for you to use during the exam. Internet research is not allowed during the exam, and you may not consult electronic sources during the examination.

This examination consists of three essay questions and 12 multiple choice questions. Read each question in its entirety before you start answering. Credit for your answers will be weighted in grading basically according to the following recommended time allocations:

Essay Question I: 70 minutes
Essay Question II: 50 minutes
Essay Question III: 30 minutes
12 multiple choice questions: 30 minutes (2.5 minutes per question)

BUDGET YOUR TIME. The above recommended time allocations total three hours. You are allowed 30 extra minutes to read through the questions and plan your answers.

Essay questions: In analyzing the questions, please address each issue reasonably raised by the facts even if rendered moot by your analysis of some other issue. Remember that this is an examination in civil procedure; although issues addressed in other courses may provide useful background, extended discussions of other subjects will not receive credit. Credit for essay answers can only be given for analysis that is set forth in your answer; unexplained conclusions will not suffice. If you find it necessary to make a factual assumption, state your assumption and continue with your answer. Good organization and clear expression will be rewarded in grading.
