

Comparative Law
Fall 2010,
Professor Ugo Mattei.

Text: Schlesinger's Comparative Law 7th Edition (Ugo Mattei, Teemu Ruskola, Antonio Gidi Eds.)

In this course we should be able to discuss materials contained in the first eight chapters of the book with only limited skipping.

Because the course will last seven weeks, we will cover roughly 120 pages per week which means slightly more than 20 pages per hour of class instruction.

It is therefore essential that students come to class each day being familiar with forty pages (roughly) that will be the subject matter of our discussion.

Aug. 24

2-42 (Introduction: Comparative Law and Globalization)

Aug. 26

42-89 (Fundamental Issues of Method)

Aug. 27

89-125 (Common Core and Issues of Integration)

Aug. 31

125-164 (The Deep Differences)

Sept. 2

165-205 (Around In Re Shoop)

Sept 3

206-248 (Legal Formants and Legal Transplants)

Sept 7

248-281 (Legal Pluralism, taxonomy, Development)

Sept 9

282-323 (Chinese Legal History and the Origins of the Western Legal Tradition)

Sept 10

323-362 (History of WLT)

Sept 14

362-404 (Islamic Law and Beginning Codification)

Sept 16

404-444 (Codification with traditional and current issues)

Sept 17

444-489 (Growth of a Code System)

Sept 21

489-530 (Organization of Justice in the civil law tradition)

Sept 23

530-573 (Style of decisions and adjudication in civil law)

Sept 24

573-613 (The role of case law in the civil law tradition)

Sept 28

613-654 (Organization of the legal profession)

Sept 30

675-715 (Global Americanization of the Legal Profession and Beginning of Civil Procedure)

Oct 1

715-756 (Civil Procedure)

Oct 12

756-809 (Civil Procedure with some skipping TBA)

Oct 14

817-855 (Criminal Procedure)

Oct 15

Q&A