Center for Human Rights and Constitutional Law
POSITIONS OPEN FOR TWO CIVIL RIGHTS IMMIGRATION
LITIGATION ATTORNEYS

Please circulate to those who may be interested.

The Center for Human Rights and Constitutional Law is a Los Angeles non-profit organization that focuses its work on the civil and human rights of insular minorities including immigrants, refugees, children, and indigenous peoples. The Center initiates and conducts major class action litigation, often involving constitutional law issues. The program also operates community-based and international human rights projects. Please visit our websites listed below for more information about our work.

The Center is currently accepting resumes for two Civil Rights Immigration Litigation Attorneys who will work on a range of assigned projects including border human rights issues and major cases, U visa litigation on behalf of immigrant crime victims, class action litigation on behalf of immigrant minors, litigation involving "late amnesty" applicants, litigation challenging the recently stepped up ICE raids, technical support in complex cases to pro bono attorneys and legal services providers, lawyer and community trainings, legislative advocacy, etc.

JOB QUALIFICATIONS:

1. Bar admission required; California admission preferred.
2. Very strong Lexis or Westlaw research and analytical writing skills.
3. Three or more years of civil litigation experience preferred
4. Bilingual Spanish-English preferred.
5. Available to start within six weeks.

Salary range: $45,000-$70,000 plus benefits depending on experience.
This is a full-time position in Los Angeles, CA.

Please email a cover letter, resume, two writing samples, and list of three references to pschey@centerforhumanrights.org

Thank you.
